The class will meet 4 times in person during the semester, TBA. Supplemental discussion will be on D2L.

Every term the Social Foundations program offers courses focused on select qualitative methods. In Spring, 2015, one of our topics is feminist methodologies.

This qualitative research seminar focuses on an array of feminist research approaches. We will read both methodological scholarship on how to theorize and implement a feminist research project as well as various exemplars that demonstrate these methods in action. Students will have the opportunity to conceptualize, craft, and implement course tools in independent research.
